

Grief and Loss

- Resident and relatives care support training program for staff in aged care -

July 22nd 1-3:30pm | Macquarie Business Training Centre | Level 1, 8 Thomas St Chatswood

A practical training program for aged care staff, with topics relating to grief and loss among residents and their loved ones. This training is specific to the aged care environment and is suitable for all staff who have direct contact with residents and/or their families.

Topics include:

- Identifying loss and grief among our residents – the move into care, types of loss and grief, end of life and dying
- Appropriate responses and how to care for a resident – communication, person-focused care, action-reflection method
- Providing support and comfort for relatives during the move into care and during the loss of a loved one – the role of supporting relatives, practical responses and effective management
- Care for ourselves at work – understanding and identifying our own needs, self care at work

Presenter:

Jennifer Freeman is a Diversional Therapist and consult-business owner of FutureAge Care. She has gained Clinical Pastoral Education (Chaplaincy) training units in both aged care and adult rehabilitation, working in pastoral care and diversional therapy for a range of aged care providers in Sydney. Jennifer has had many years experience presenting at training seminars, conferences and various workshops for organisations including: UnitingCare Ageing, Total Aged Services, Diversional Therapy Australia, Carex and Montefiore Homes.

Training Program:

This training program is a 2.5-hour session with training notes and practical work to equip your staff, build their confidence and skills in this very important area of care for residents. A certificate of completion is awarded to each participant at the end of the training.

The Grief and Loss training program is $75.00 per person and includes a training manual and ambient audio CD for use within palliative care.
